Rotary President From Italy to Speak at Herrin

HERRIN, Ill. (AP)—The president of Rotary International should feel right at home here next Tuesday night. It's been planned that way.

Gian Paolo Lang of Livorno, Italy, president of the worldwide Rotary organization, will speak at a southern Illinois district meeting here. More than 500 Rotarians are expected to hear him.

Herrin was chosen for the meeting because many of its citizens are of Italian descent.

The dinner menu will include ravioli, Italian style baked chicken and tossed salad, and pon'd anis, an Italian cake.

Local Elks Ritual Team in Dist. Contest

Ritual team members from Harrisburg lodge No. 1058, B. P. O. Elks, will travel to Carmi Sunday to participate in the South District Ritual contest against five other lodges from the district.

The ritual contest, an annual affair all over the nation, rates the competing teams on the basis of impressiveness, deportment, pronunciation, and memorization of the ritual work, and the Harrisburg team, entering for the first time, has been drilling two and three nights a week for several months in an effort to bring home the first place trophy.

The winning team in each district will compete against the winners from each of the other six districts in the state at the state convention in Springfield in May, and the state winner will then compete on a nationwide basis at the Grand Lodge convention in San Francisco in July.

Other lodges competing at Carmi Sunday will be Carmi, Cairo, Chester, Murphysboro, and Carbondale. The host team, Carmi, is the defending champion in the district.

Members of the Harrisburg team are Exalted Ruler, Vern Joyner Jr.; Esteemed Leading Knight, John R. Small; Esteemed Loyal Knight, Owen Hunsinger Jr.; Esteemed Lecturing Knight, Marion Bradley; Esquire, Richard Webb; Chaplain, Wayne Dixon; Inner Guard, Floyd Jones; and candidate, Howard Logsdon.

They will be the first team to perform Sunday morning at 9:00, and it is hoped that members of the lodge who find it convenient will drive to Carmi to support their team's effort to win.

Senate Doubtful Summerfield Asks Higher Postal Rates; Four Cents for Letters

WASHINGTON (AP)—A cordial House reception appeared likely today for the administration's request to raise the cost of mailing a first class letter from 3 to 4 cents.

But its fate appeared in doubt at the hands of the Senate which killed similar legislation last year. Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield Thursday requested legislation upping various postal rates which he said would bring in an additional 527½ million dollars annually by 1961.

Summerfield apparently heeded the warnings of a number of congressmen and abandoned any idea of seeking a 5-cent rate for letters.

House Post Office Committee sources said they assumed the higher postal rates will be approved by the committee. The committee approved a similar bill last year and the House passed it.

Summerfield's proposal would yield considerably less than the 654 million dollars a year in higher postal receipts that President Eisenhower asked for in his January budget message. The President gave no details at that time, but postal sources said his budget request "presupposes" a 5-cent letter charge.

The new proposal is similar to what the administration asked in 1956, except for a boost on second class mail twice the amount recommended last year.

Rate Increases Proposed

Summerfield, in an accompanying letter to Speaker Sam Rayburn (D-Tex.), urged "early enactment" to the following rate increases:

First class mail—From 3 to 4 cents an ounce.

Postcards—From 2 cents to 3 cents each.

Airmail—From 6 to 7 cents an ounce.

Air postcards—From 4 to 5 cents each.

Second class mail newspapers and magazines—Four annual increases of 15 per cent. The hikes would not apply to newspapers printing less than 5,000 copies or to publications of non-profit religious, educational, scientific, philanthropic, agricultural, labor veterans or fraternal organizations.

Third class mail advertising matter—From 2 to 3 cents for the first 2 ounces, and from 1 to 1½ cents on each additional ounce. Bulk rates would be increased from 14 to 16 cents per pound.

Book rates—From 8 to 10 cents on the first pound and from 4 to 5 cents for each additional pound.

Controlled circulation publications—From 10 to 12 cents an ounce.

Summerfield also urged Congress to adopt a long range policy requiring the postmaster general at least every two years to submit rate adjustment proposals designed to put the post office nearer a pay-as-you-go basis.

Woo Democratic Votes Republicans Line Up Behind Farm Bureau Plan to Aid Nation's Corn Growers

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Republicans today looked to farm organization lobbyists for help in wooing Democratic votes needed for passage of a new plan to aid most of the nation's corn growers.

Republicans lined up behind the new plan advanced by the American Farm Bureau Federation after the House Thursday rejected their original proposal by seven votes.

The 187-180 vote left intact and still pending before the House a Democratic plan which couples relief for commercial corn growers with new subsidies for other growers of corn and growers of all other feed grains.

The almost straight party-line vote came after Republican leaders denounced the Democratic plan as a $1 billion "monstrosity." They warned that President Eisenhower would veto any such bill.

Could Be Stalemate

After two days of partisan wrangling, the House agreed to put off further voting until Tuesday. Democratic farm leaders predicted their party lines would hold firm then against efforts by the outnumbered Republicans to substitute their new plan.

But Democrats were not sure they could muster enough votes to pass their own bill. The result could be a stalemate—and no corn legislation.

Administration farm officials have warned that emergency legislation is needed to avert the threat that corn-hog farmers in the Midwest may produce prices depressing surpluses of corn this year. That could result eventually in depressing prices of all livestock.

The trouble stems from results of a grower referendum last Dec. 10. It fixed the support price for the 1957 crop at $1.36 a bushel and the planting allotment at 37.3 million acres, a level so low most farmers are expected to overplant and

Allied Chemical Confirms Plant For Metropolis

METROPOLIS, Ill. (AP)—Allied Chemical & Dye Co., New York, announced today it will build a multi-million dollar uranium salts plant near here.

The announcement came in a telephone call from I. H. Fooshee, vice president of Allied's general chemical division to the Metropolis Industrial Committee.

Fooshee said the Metropolis site was chosen over several other locations.

The plant is expected to cost some 10 million dollars. It will employ up to 700 persons during construction and from 280 to 400 in production, officials said.

The plant will manufacture uranium hexafluoride for the Atomic Energy Commission, Fooshee said. It will be the first privately owned plant to make uranium hexafluoride.

"The location also is slated to become a production center for many other fluorine chemicals made by the company," Fooshee said.

Fooshee said start of production is expected in late 1958 or early in 1959. The vice president said he saw development of other products at the plant to "accelerate and broaden the use of atomic energy in non-military applications."

Members of the Metropolis Industrial Committee which had negotiated with the New York firm since last November are Lindell Sturgis, a banker, Alan and William Brannon, insurance men and realtors, and John H. Koopman, vice president of Electric Energy Inc.

The plant will be located on 600 acres of land one mile northwest of Metropolis on the Ohio river. It will be served by two railroads.

$4.8 Million More Chopped From Spending

Congressmen Warn President Talks May Hit Legislation

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House Appropriations Committee today took a third whack at President Eisenhower's "monstrous" budget and assailed his top budget officer for apparently being "unacquainted with the budget of his own agency."

The Democratic-controlled committee, approving a spending bill for the White House and assorted minor agencies, chopped $4,805,500 out of the President's requests—a reduction of 23 per cent.

The economy-minded committee previously has recommended—and the House has approved—a 2 per cent cut in funds for the Treasury and Post Office departments and a 12 per cent reduction in money to run the Interior Department. In dollars, these reductions totaled only about $141 million.

Democrats Plan Hearings

Other developments in the budget-cutting picture:

—Some congressmen warned President Eisenhower that unless he stops talking budget cuts some of his major legislation will be killed off in a snowballing congressional economy drive.

—House Democrats announced they will hold hearings on a resolution calling on the President to junk the record peacetime budget of $71.8 billion he has sent to Congress and submit a new one not exceeding $60 billion by April 15.

—A United Press spot survey of federal agencies turned up no evidence that they are considering any cuts in their budgets now before Congress. The check was made after Mr. Eisenhower told his news conference Thursday he had ordered a new review of federal spending plans to see if reductions can be made.

Part of today's House committee cut was aimed at the Budget Bureau which authored the President's record budget for the new fiscal year.

Report Blasts Brundage

In a report, to the House the committee charged that the Budget Bureau was permitting its own payroll, as well as those of other agencies, to climb above the levels authorized by Congress in money bills for the current year.

The report said Budget Director Percival F. Brundage, under questioning, appeared unaware that projected employment in the Budget Bureau was to exceed the specified levels.

"Already dismayed at the monstrous size of the budget for 1958, the committee was further disturbed to find that the director was apparently unacquainted with the budget for his own agency," the committee report said.

The committee gave Brundage $4.3 million of the $4.4 million he wanted for his agency, a reduction of $100,000.

It approved in full requests for $150,000 for the President's salary, which is fixed by law, $2,051,970 for expenses of the White House offices, $1.5 million for unspecified "special projects" of the President, and $400,400 for maintenance of the White House mansion and grounds.

Lists Many Cuts

It cut $320,000 out of requests for the President's Council of Economic Advisers, his National Security Council, the Office of Defense Mobilization, and his Advisory Committee on Government Organization.

The committee cut the President's national defense emergency fund from $5 million, as asked, to $1 million.

The American Battle Monuments Commission got $2.5 million, a cut of $300,000; the Corregidor Bataan Memorial Commission, $44,000 as requested; the Subversive Activities Control Board, which wanted $395,000, got $375,000; and the Foreign Claims Settlement Commission was cut from $635,000 to $570,000.

Will Combat Linger Head Cold, Cough with Sun and Exercise

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower probably will go to Florida about the middle of next week for sun and exercise to combat a lingering head cold and cough, the White House said today.

White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said Mr. Eisenhower hopes and expects to get away to Florida five or six days before going to Bermuda March 20 for his scheduled conference with British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan.

The conference with Macmillan opens March 21, and Hagerty said he expects the President to fly to Bermuda directly from Florida March 20.

Mr. Eisenhower is being treated with antibiotic drugs for his cold and a resultant slight inflammation of the eustachian tube of his left ear.

Hagerty said the President's cough seemed to be "a little better" this morning. But he still has a slight ear inflammation and head cold.

Hagerty said he does not expect a decision on the precise departure time and destination in Florida before Monday.

Mr. Eisenhower will not be accompanied either to Florida or Bermuda by Mrs. Eisenhower.

The President's ear was packed with cotton most of Thursday. But because the ear was feeling better in the late afternoon, he removed the packing before attending a party in the Senate caucus room for Leonard W. Hall, former chairman of the Republican National Committee.

When the President entered the crowded room, Sen. George H. Bender (R-Ohio) asked if he would like a highball. Mr. Eisenhower eyed the nearby bar but said he'd better take a soft drink instead because he was "too full of antibiotics." He also passed up the pretzels, potato chips and nuts.

Chief Martin said that after the fire was extinguished a check was made in an effort to determine its cause, and that it could not be determined.

He said that the fire trucks had 800 gallons of water in their booster tanks, that about 250 gallons were required to extinguish the blaze.

Last night at 7:30 another fire run was made to extinguish a grass fire in the township park.

Look Backward, American

Editorial — By BRUCE BLOSSAT

We Americans often tend to scoff at our European friends for immersing themselves so deeply in the stream of their long history. But it might be better if we could manage more than a short dip.

We don't have any trouble remembering Washington, Lincoln and a handful of our other great heroes of the past. Indeed, in some quarters interest in Lincoln and Civil War times has attained fantastic proportions.

But countless public figures in all walks of life are too readily forgotten, as are the events they were caught up in. It is truly startling, for example, to hear how many Americans under 40 never heard of Charles A. Lindbergh.

And, oddly enough, people young and slightly old sometimes know surprisingly little of the background in fields they like to think of as their specialties. One wonders whether the rock-and-rollers of 1965 will know whether the late Tommy Dorsey was a trombonist or a pro football player.

Admittedly, Americans live in a land and a time so constantly crowded with fresh experiences, with new impressions, that the old can be quickly shoved out of sight and memory. The miracles of electronic science still unfolding are not likely to lessen this powerful impact of the immediate.

There is much to be said, of course, for a people that seeks out the new, that likes to innovate and experiment, that can compel change and then in so many ways adapt to it.

Yet we Americans lose many valuable lessons for not remembering our history better, no matter what the field of endeavor. A lot of breath and energy could be saved if we troubled to look back even a couple of decades sometimes to see what has been said and done by others.

For those who don't want historians and others telling them they should gain instruction from the past, some would say simply that they're missing a lot of fun, too. Pleasure is not limited to the things of the moment. By delving into history, endless amounts of it can be uncovered.

We don't need to rush out to join a bunch of historical societies. But neither do we need to put a blank sheet between us and yesterday.

Today is pretty exciting for most Americans. But the receding yesterdays are all today's once. And they were pretty exciting, too.

Bombers Could Do It, Too

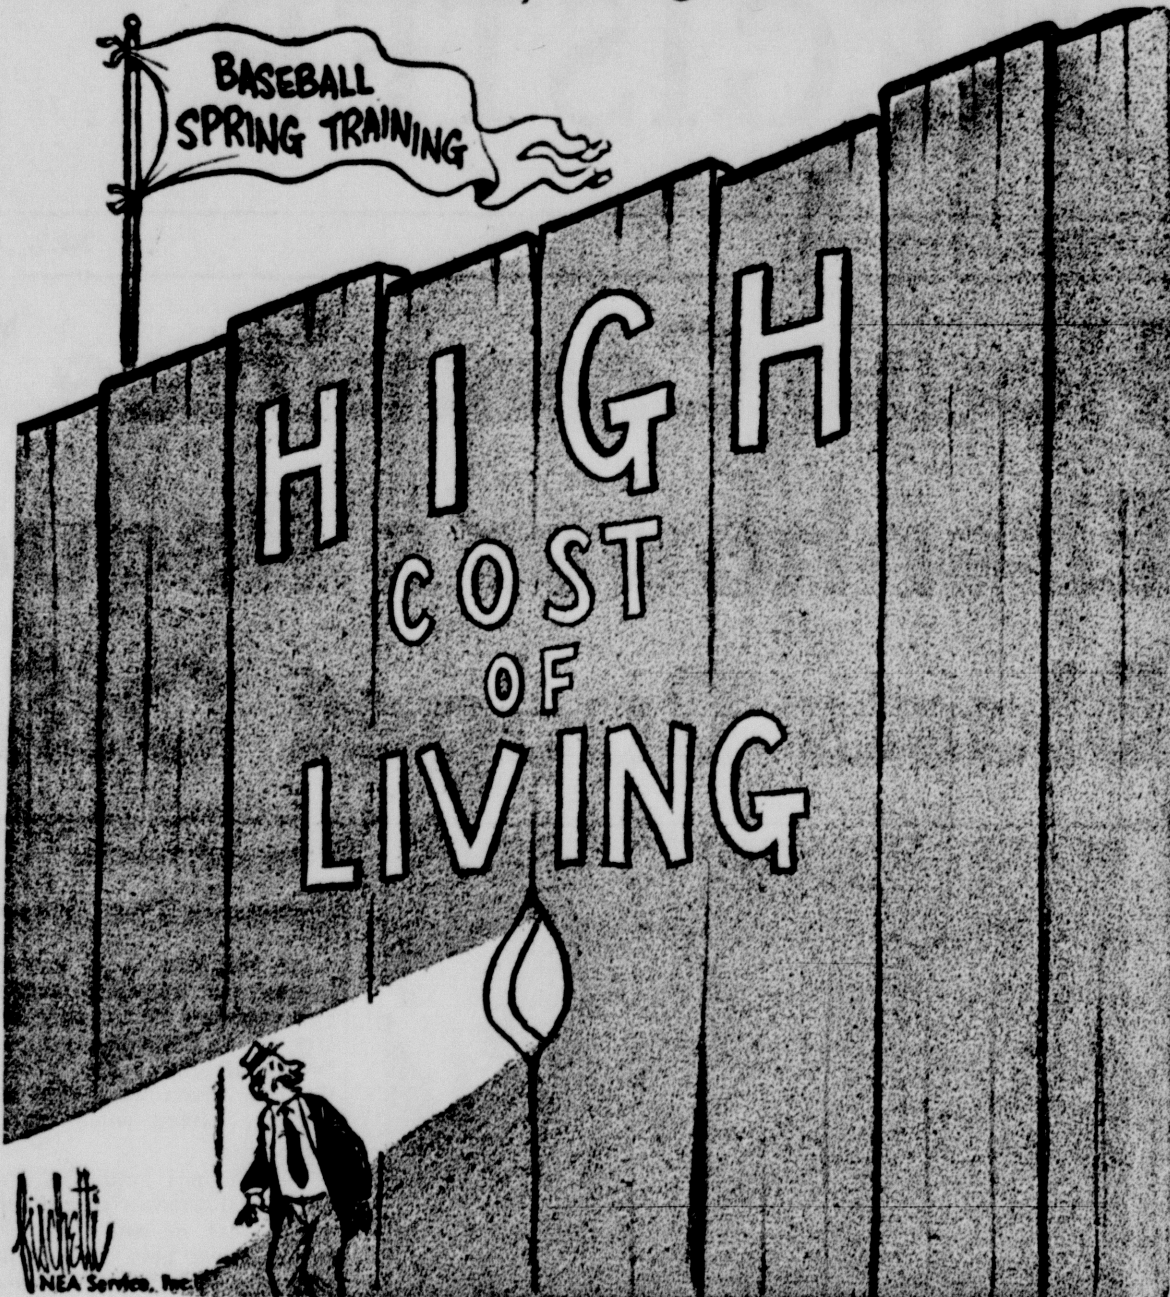

Americans cannot help but express admiration for the latest pioneering effort of the Scandinavian Airlines System: a regular flying route across the North Pole from Europe to Japan.

In route-making this is the ultimate daring, for it implies extreme confidence both in navigational aids and in the quality and condition of flying equipment. The polar ice is no place for forced landings.

SAS's inaugural flights between Copenhagen and Tokyo showed a saving of several thousand miles and some 22 hours over previously established routes between Europe and the Orient. This represents a remarkable step toward a further practical shrinking of the earth's surface.

The establishment of scheduled flying over the polar cap also constitutes newly impressive evidence of what military aircraft could be expected to do in the event of another global war. Even the most skeptical must now recognize that the menace of attack from the north is real.

Young trout live mainly on insects, but older fish need minnows or small fish.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

DREW PEARSON Says: House Demos Disappoint Small Business Despite Campaign Hoopla; Sen. Byrd Opposes Tax Boost For Business Barons; Sen-In-Law Of Dictator Becomes Dean Of Diplomatic Corps.

WASHINGTON. — The Democrats made a big hurrah about helping small business during the recent election campaign. Now, however, they are coming up with a nice fat zero.

The Republicans, it's true, also made a lot of noise about helping small business, and Sherman Adams told the Smaller Business Association of New England that tax relief definitely would be forthcoming if Ike were re-elected and all taxes cut. Now the administration is vigorously opposing this.

However, let's see what the Democrats, who yelled the loudest, did about small business.

Very quietly, and in one single morning, the Democratic leadership rushed the existing tax bill on corporation profits through the House Ways and Means committee, which handles taxes.

No effort was made by either party to reduce the tax on small business. No small-business witnesses were heard. The speed was such as to arouse suspicion. Afterward, the tax bill was given a gag rule by the Rules committee, which means that it cannot be amended on the floor of the House. No congressman can propose a lower tax for small business and get it voted on.

WHY THE RUSH?

Officially, the rush was justified by the fact that the tax bill expires March 31. It contains excise taxes as well as corporate taxes, and there cannot be even one day's lapse in the machinery of collecting excise taxes.

However, here is the very significant development regarding the tax bill after it was rammed through the Ways and Means committee. At first it was sent to the full House for action during the week of Feb. 18. Then suddenly it was withdrawn. It is now being held in abeyance until a few days before the taxes are due to expire on March 31. The reason is complicated but important. In brief, it smacks of oil.

In Capitol cloakrooms it's admitted the House Democratic leadership is fearful that the Senate will pass a reduction of the 27.2 per cent oil depletion allowance. This is the big tax bonanza which permits oil men to have the most favored tax position in the U. S. A.; and, incidentally, also permits them to throw all kinds of money into election campaigns.

Seldom has public opinion been so irate against the oil companies as right now. So Democratic leaders, one of them coming from oil-rich Texas, another from oil-rich Oklahoma, have held up the tax bill. They know the Senate is always slow.

Therefore, House leaders intend to pass the tax bill at the last minute, then send it to the Senate. In the few hours or days before March 31 they know the Senate won't have time to add any amendments hurting oil.

Note — Speaker Sam Rayburn has pushed more legislation through the House favoring humanitarian causes than any single living American. So he can be forgiven for bowing three times in the direction of oil when oil legislation peeks even remotely over the edge of the Capitol dome. After all, he's from Texas. Rep. Carl Albert of Oklahoma is a Democratic whip.

FULBRIGHT STRUGGLES

Meanwhile, Sen. Bill Fulbright, Democrat of Arkansas, is carrying out the Democratic platform by offering an amendment reducing taxes on small corporations and increasing them slightly on giant firms, such as General Motors, which dominate the American economy. This, he contends, would get around the White House argument that the Treasury can't afford loss of tax revenue.

Thirty-two senators are supporting Fulbright's amendment. But he can't get Sen. Harry Byrd, of Virginia, biggest apple grower in the world and no friend of small business, even to hold hearings. Byrd is chairman of the Senate Finance committee, and he has ignored all of Fulbright's requests for hearings.

In the House, Rep. Wright Patman of Texas, Texas, staunch friend of little business, has proposed a similar tax reduction for small business, but he has already been thwarted by the Ways and Means committee's ramrod action.

So even if the 32 senators supporting Fulbright should get a small business tax relief amendment through the Senate, they will come up against astute Democratic leaders in the House determined to permit no change in the tax bill.

Note — House Republicans are equally strong against any concession to small business, and so are a majority of Republican senators.

BACKSTAGE WITH THE DIPLOMATS

The expansive bosom of Nicaraguan Ambassador Bill Sacasa is going to swell a bit more shortly. With the exit of much-loved Norwegian Ambassador Morgenstjerne, the envoy of the turbulent, tiny Central American dictatorship becomes dean of the Washington diplomatic corps. The genial Sacasa is one envoy who got his job via the bloody hands of a bloody father-in-law—President Somoza, now assassinated. Somoza was a sergeant whom the U. S. Marines trained so well that he took over the presidency of Nicaragua for years. . . . When Brazilian Envoy to the Pan American Union Fernando Lobo went to Nashville to pay tribute to Cordell Hull for the good neighbor policy, he knew better. Lobo knew that the real founder of the good neighbor policy was Sumner Welles, who sold it to FDR in 1932, inserted it in the Democratic platform at the Chicago 1932 convention, and later carried it out as undersecretary of state. . . . One of the reasons Cordell Hull has got credit for the good neighbor policy is that he was smart enough to hire an expert newsman, able Andrew Berding, to write his memoirs. Jim Hagerty has now been smart enough to transfer Berding over to the State Department to improve John Foster Dulles' shaky press relations. Berding will become assistant secretary of state.

Thinking It Over

By Robert L. Dieffenbacher, D.D.
(Written for NEA Service)

Since Easter will be late this year we shall need a different wardrobe than if it were in March. The winter was hard. We need some clothes to "give us a lift."

Yes, we must begin to think about clothes, and about the money we shall spend on this bit of finery. We must make the right impression on the others we shall see in the "Easter Parade."

What plans are we making for our spiritual "lift" at Easter? How much will we spend to extend God's kingdom? We ought to contribute something of ourselves to lift the souls of men out of the doldrums of materialism.

We ought to dress up our souls as much as we do our bodies. We must place the resurrected Christ at the head of the Easter parade.

Big Ridge Baptist

Faithful Followers Meet

The Faithful Followers Sunday school class of the Big Ridge Baptist church met March 5 at the home of Mrs. Theda Miller.

Nine members answered roll call with a verse about the Sabbath. After the business meeting an inspiring devotion on "How to Observe the Sabbath," was given by Mrs. Phyllis Hicks.

Following recreation led by Barbara Miller the hostess served refreshments to the following: Mrs. Genevieve Alvey, Barbara Miller, Eva Muge, Phyllis Hicks, Wilma Rister, Shirley Rister, Shirley Wintzler, Margaret Wise, Patty Berry, Dorothy Alvey, Pat Drone, Erma Jean Alvey and Jean Marie Fox.

Mr. and Mrs. Hollis Barger and Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Ledford returned today to Largo, Fla., where Mr. and Mrs. Ledford reside and where Mrs. Ledford's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Barger, are spending the winter. They were called here by the death of Mr. Barger's father, the Rev. Ira S. Barger. Also here for the funeral were another son-in-law and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Barger, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Heathman, and their son, Gary, of Pontiac, Mich.

First Baptist Cornelia

Leavell B.W.C. Meets

The Cornelia Leavell B.W.C. of the First Baptist church met Thursday evening in the educational building.

After a very delicious fried chicken dinner, served by the ladies of the Presbyterian church, the business meeting was called to order. The community mission for the month is to visit the aged confined in nursing home and take small gifts.

The members were urged to attend the federation meeting to be held at McKinley Avenue church March 28.

Mrs. Herman J. Davis, president of the W.M.U., explained the aims of W.M.U., and strong points as well as weak, of the circle, were stressed.

Mrs. Susie Boardman, program chairman, discussed the program for the month, stressing the needs of the foreign groups of people within our country. Mrs. Odella Doom presented the Annie Armstrong Home Mission offering very effectively, as the offering from the circle was $68.

Twenty-one members were present for this interesting meeting.

Mrs. Doris Beltz and daughter, Betty, and Mrs. Beltz' brother, Robert Conner, Streator, have been called to Harrisburg by the illness of their aunt, Mrs. Flo Kuykendall, who underwent surgery at the Harrisburg hospital.

Teen Town Notes

Hi!

I guess we'll never forget this month—if for no other reason than the fact that everyone has had the measles. Lots of our members have succumbed—even some of the upper classmen, who really felt they were too old for such foolishness. However, I checked the attendance at Teen Town, and surprisingly enough, our attendance was excellent. The first Monday night this month we had the largest number at the Penthouse we have ever had!

How long has it been since you've dropped a suggestion in the suggestion box? Some recent ideas are to have a contest every month for the best dancers—fast and slow—and give them a prize. What do you think? Another suggestion is to have the upper classmen spend some time teaching the members on the side lines how to dance. Drop your opinions in the red box and they will be read and discussed.

We have elected our new officers, who will take office this month. We had a big vote and the ballots were counted by Chuck and Joan and a senior board member. Here are the results: President, Bill Endsley; vice president, Linda Skaggs; secretary, Judy O'Neal; treasurer, George Wright. We know the new officers will be fine—but they'll have to be on the ball to serve as well as our outgoing group. They've worked hard and faithfully—and it wasn't always convenient or fun. Let's tell them how we've appreciated the time they've given.

Next month the new committees and the junior board members for next year will be announced.

This was the Elks' month to chaperone and Wayne Dixon rounded up the following people who chaperoned in fine form: Mr. and Mrs. Harold Logsdon, Mr. and Mrs. Phil Durham, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hanson, Mr. and Mrs. Ken Butterfield, Mr. and Mrs. John R. Small, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ford, Mr. and Mrs. Dale Sullivan, Mr. and Mrs. Marion Bradley, Mr. and Mrs. Owen Hunsinger, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Sullivan, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Webb, Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Bolerjack, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Bean, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Wirth, Mr. and Mrs. George Barnes.

Thought for Today: Isn't it terrible how close some motorists drive ahead of you?
Come on up—everyone will be there!

Look Goes Back to 1930's

The Cloche Is the Hat for Spring

The cloche returns in full force this spring in company with other hats that have the look of the 1930's. These are definitely new hats, however, so don't rescue an old cloche from the attic. They are far more shallow and far prettier. Profile cloche by Walter Florell is in blue ballunital straw (upper left), is draped with a soft band and floating streamers of printed chiffon. From Christian Dior-New York comes (upper center) this young "wole" hat in ice blue straw with big cluster of bachelor-buttons. The coffee-colored square-crowned cloche by Beatrice-Martin (upper right) has brim faced with white. Crown is banded in gray-and-white and there's a filmy veil. This same designer uses pale mauve straw (lower left) for round-crowned 1930 cloche with banding of velvet and feather bird trim. The tall, wind-swept cloche (lower center) of burnt strawbraids is by Chanda. It has tiny brim faced in white and lacy brown mesh face veil. A 1930 cloche (lower right) by Sally Victor has off-face rippled brim and cockade of gray ribbon. These are truly small, close-fitting and flattering hats.

Guiding Influence

No Need for Sacrifice of Religious Ideals in Political Post, Benson Says

By LOUIS CASSELS
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UP) — Ezra T. Benson, the first clergyman to serve in the Cabinet since the Civil War, said today his four stormy years as secretary of agriculture have convinced him that "you don't have to sacrifice your principles to perform effectively in a political post."

"I have never found it necessary to wink at my religious ideals in order to carry on my government job," said the devout Mormon Church leader who has occupied one of the hottest seats in Washington since the Eisenhower administration took office in January 1953. "If I did, I wouldn't stay here 24 hours."

Benson is an ordained minister and former foreign missionary. He has been a member of the Council of the Twelve Apostles, ruling body of the Mormon Church, since 1943. He said in an interview that he regards government service as a Christian vocation, as honorable in the sight of God as the ministry or any other calling.

He also believes that religion, if sincere, must be the guiding influence in all of a man's activities—in politics, business, family life and recreation—and not merely a "separate compartment of life reserved for Sunday morning."

These convictions are reflected in Benson's custom of opening all of his Agriculture Department given in the evening of March 19 and first classes of the new quarter will meet the night of March 27. Full class schedules begin officially the following morning.

March 27 has been set as the last day of regular registration for the spring quarter. Students entering after that time will be assessed a late registration fee of $2 for the first day and $1 for each additional day.

staff conferences with prayer.

"I believe very deeply in the possibility of finding divine inspiration for your daily work if you seek for it," he said. "I've had enough evidence of it to satisfy me beyond the shadow of a doubt."

Benson said he does not expect God to provide specific "answers" to detailed problems of farm policy. "I would not ask the Almighty where to set the rice support level on a crop," he explained. "That is an economic, not a moral, issue."

What he does seek, and is confident he has received, is overall guidance to "make decisions in the right way."

Benson's strong conviction that he is carrying out God's will in his farm policies has been a frequent source of irritation to his political opponents, and particularly to some farm state congressmen who sincerely and vigorously disagree with him.

But the "inner security" which he draws from this conviction has been a major factor in Benson's ability to remain relatively unruffled in the face of some of the sharpest political and personal attacks ever directed at a public figure.

"I never get too upset by all this controversy so long as I feel in my heart that I'm doing what's right," he said.

Doesn't he find it hard at times to maintain an attitude of Christian charity toward his critics?

"Well, there is such a thing as righteous indignation," he replied with a smile. "I believe it is right to speak your mind frankly and defend your position vigorously. But I always try to meet attacks with kindness. I really haven't had much trouble about forgiving my political enemies. Some of those who have attacked me most bitterly are good men with good motives. I have no feeling of personal animosity toward any of them."

Good Program

THE STORY: Chad Morgan meets an old friend, Cass Simcoe, a Texas girl, in Pawnee City. She has ridden up with her father's herd and the promise of high prices for steers is too good to be true, she tells Chad.

XI

Cass started to go with him, then drew back. "Golly, this—this sweetheart of yours. I can't let her see me in these overalls. Patches and all."

"How long is it since you've worn a dress?"

"Not since I was a girl! No use at home. I—I've tried on some of mother's dresses, though. They didn't fit me—too big, but I—"

"Perhaps Helen will—"

"Helen?"

"Helen Jagger."

"Is she pretty?"

"She's the most beautiful woman in the world," said Morgan.

He led her to the hotel, into the lobby, where she again tried to pull away from him, then on behind the desk, into the office, where Helen Jagger was working.

She started to rise, sent a sharp look at Cass's face. "Why, she's a girl!"

"Cass Simcoe," said Morgan. "General Simcoe's daughter."

"General Simcoe?" asked Helen, puzzled.

"Late of the Confederate Army. He's brought a herd up the trail. Cass came along. I stopped at their place in Texas last fall."

Helen suddenly smiled and held out her hand to Cass. "Hello, Cass. Welcome to Kansas!"

"Golly, Miss—Miss Helen," exclaimed Cass. "You're beautiful!"

She flashed a look at Morgan. "You've checked into the hotel?"

Helen asked.

"Checked—checked in?"

"Registered," said Morgan. "No, they haven't registered. Cass came on ahead. The herd was still crossing the river. I imagine the general will be coming in before evening."

Helen suddenly understood. "You'd like to clean up, though, wouldn't you?" She came away from the desk and took Cass's arm. "Come along to my room. I have a dress that I think you'd like. I'll lend it to you."

Cass gave Morgan a desperate look, but he shook his head and Cass allowed herself to be taken away by Helen Jagger.

Morgan found Helen in the office behind the hotel desk. There was now a full-time clerk on duty at the desk, and Helen spent most of her time in the office.

"She's very pretty, Chad," she said.

"Cass? The first time I saw her she was practicing drawing a gun and shooting. I thought she was a boy."

"She doesn't look like a boy in that dress of mine."

"No, she doesn't," admitted Morgan. "It was very nice of you to lend her the dress."

"I was glad to." Helen got up, came to him and, putting her arms about him, kissed him soundly. "I don't see enough of you, Chad. Seems to me I never see you more than once or twice a day."

"I'm around," said Morgan, "but you're always working."

"I'm always a woman." She gave him a smile. "When I'm with you, Chad, I'm glad I'm a woman. Now, clear out of here, I've work to do."

A sense of strange unease settled over him as he left her in the office. He stopped in the lobby. There were chairs and even a sofa in it now, although the floors were still bare. So much mud and dust was tracked in that a carpet would have been impractical.

He stepped out upon the veranda and was about to start down the street when he sighted Joe Jagger coming out of the Longhorn Saloon, headed for the hotel. He looked around quickly, saw a guest seated on a chair at the far end of the veranda and went down to meet Jagger.

"Joe," he said, when Jagger came up, "I've been meaning to tell you. Tom Alder's in town."

Jagger grimaced. "He introduced himself to me in the Longhorn."

"He saw anything more than just introduce himself?"

"What do you mean?"

"He knows that we got the Confederate gold."

"He said so?" Jagger demanded sharply.

"He said we built quite a town with $25,000."

"I don't see anything wrong with that. Our creditors know by now that we didn't have any more than that when we started Pawnee City."

"It was the way he said it. He tied it in with a similar remark when I met him down in Texas—Shelby's gold having been captured by—the Sixteenth Illinois Cavalry."

"Doesn't mean a thing. Every body knows it was the Sixteenth caught up with Shelby's rearguard. You worry too much, Chad." He suddenly smiled. "Isn't it about time you and Helen took a little trip?"

"She's too busy."

"We're all busy." Jagger shook his head. "Beats me how she takes to this. When I went to war she was in pig tails. Now she's a woman."

"She's that," said Morgan. Jagger hesitated a moment. "That Texas tomboy's rather pretty, don't you think?"

Morgan smiled. "I'll admit I was caught flat-footed when I saw her in Helen's dress. Down in Texas I'd thought her—she suddenly looked sharply at Jagger—"now, wait a minute, Joe! You're not thinking—"

"No?"

"She's a child."

"A child of 19 or 20." Jagger grinned.

Discuss Boost In U. I. Tuition

SPRINGFIELD (UP)—The prospect of a tuition increase for Illinois students at the University of Illinois grew today following a conference between University President David D. Henry and Gov. William G. Stratton.

Stratton and Henry met for 2½ hours in the governor's office Thursday and afterwards Henry told reporters "I think it is possible for us to recommend a moderate increase in tuition for this biennium."

Henry said, however, the matter deserves further study and will not come before the university board of trustees before its April meeting. The board has a March meeting scheduled next week.

The board last year boosted tuition for out-of-state students from $400 to $550. This increase goes into effect in September.

The present tuition fee for Illinois students at the university is $180 a year including fees.

Humm Asks Motorists To Quit Using Used Car Parking Lot

A number of motorists, it has been revealed, have stopped using the city parking lot across from the county jail now that parking meters have been installed and are leaving their cars on the used car lot of the Humm Motor Co. adjacent to the east.

Victor Humm of the Humm Motor Co. today asked these motorists to quit using his lot as a parking place, as he needed the room.

He said that at times his lot is quite congested with cars parked there by their owners, that it is causing him and his employees much inconvenience.

Boxing Clubs, Norris and Wirtz Found Guilty of Conspiracy

NEW YORK (UP)—The International Boxing Club of New York and its Chicago affiliate and others were found guilty of violating the antitrust laws today by Federal Judge Sylvester J. Ryan.

The court held that the boxing clubs, Madison Square Garden and James D. Norris and Arthur M. Wirtz engaged in a conspiracy which "as a result of their activities acquired power . . . to exclude competitors from the promotion of championship contests in the United States."

The antitrust action was filed by the government in March of 1952 and accused the defendants of conspiring to monopolize interstate and foreign commerce in the promotion of title bouts and the sale of radio, television and motion picture rights.

IBC and its co-defendants were alleged to have taken part in the promotion of 80 per cent of all championship bouts in this country between Jan. 1, 1949, and May 15, 1953.

"The defendants, as promoters of such title fights, derive substantially all of their revenue

Motorist Plays Good Samaritan to Student, Date, Dies in Auto Accident

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (UP)—An inquest will be held into the death of Harold L. Hurst, 29, who played "good Samaritan" to a University of Illinois student and his date only to be killed later in an automobile accident.

Hurst, who farms near Champaign, encountered the student and his date sitting in an automobile which had broken down along the highway Wednesday night.

When the coed told Hurst of the 10:30 p. m. curfew at the university he offered to drive the couple back to the campus.

Afterward Hurst picked up three fraternity brothers of the youth and volunteered to take them to the stalled car and help get it back into town.

On the way to the car, Hurst's car collided with a truck driven by John J. Brouwer, Hutsonville, Mich.

Hurst was killed and the four students with him were injured. They were identified as Fred Wham III, Centralia, Richard L. Ekin, 20, Galion, Ohio, Gerald Tietz, 19, Springfield, and William Bonansinga, 19, Quincy.

All were reported in fair condition.

Brouwer was arrested and charged with failing to yield the right of way.

Defense Claims Marion Woman Threatened by Slain Husband

MARION, Ill. (UP)—The defense in a Williamson County Circuit Court murder trial contended today that Mrs. Ouida Cannon's husband "threatened to kill her" if she tried to divorce him.

The 30-year-old mother of two is on trial on charge of murder. She is charged with the shotgun slaying of her husband, Raymond Lee Cannon, 31, last Aug. 31, as he slept at their farm home southwest of Marion.

In his opening statement today, Defense Atty. Ralph Harris contended Mrs. Cannon was temporarily insane at the time.

Harris said Mrs. Cannon had asked her husband for a divorce in 1950 because of repeated beatings and acts of cruelty.

He said the defendant lived in fear of her husband and "was afraid to divorce him because of his threat to kill her."

Harris rescribed Mrs. Cannon as a good mother and housekeeper and said she worked to help support the family.

Harris said that the couple was

Panel Discussion on Grading System at Horace Mann PTA

An interesting panel discussion was conducted at the March meeting of the Horace Mann P. T. A. The subject was "The Grading System used in the Harrisburg City Schools."

The panel was composed of Dr. Russell Malan, moderator, Donald Darnell, Mrs. Vivian Cotton, and Mrs. Alice Crebo.

Many vital facts were brought out urging parents to pay more attention to the citizenship side of the report card. If the child conforms to all the listings there, consequently the academic side of the report will be very good. The Harrisburg city school system attempts to grade the child on his accomplishments according to his own ability. At no time is he graded in comparison with another child or children in the class. Therefore, it is of little value for the parents to compare report cards.

The idea of parent conferences with the school instead of report cards was brought up. Parents at Horace Mann liked both the report cards and private conferences.

The same topic will have a place on P. T. A. programs at other schools. Those interested are urged to attend.

The San Benedicto Island when became extinct as the result of the birth of a volcano on the island.

Woman Drifts In Gulf 2 Days With Dead Mate

TAVERNIER, Fla. (UP)—A woman remained in shock today from her two days of helpless drifting in the Gulf of Mexico in a boat with the lifeless body of her husband.

Mrs. Claretta Fleck, 62, of South Miami, spent almost 48 hours with the body of her husband after he apparently had a fatal heart attack after working on a fouled boat rudder at sea.

A passing fisherman, Al Grace, discovered Mrs. Fleck's plight Thursday and towed her craft to port with his own boat from far out in the Gulf.

Coroner George Rawlings said Mrs. Fleck was in an advanced stage of shock. She was near hysteria when brought to shore here.

The coroner said he learned from the woman that she and her husband, Richard C. Fleck, 57, had left home last Friday for a week's outing aboard their cabin cruiser. She said Fleck went over the side Tuesday to fix a fouled rudder. When he came back on board, he collapsed and died at her feet, she said.

Mrs. Fleck said she did not know how to start the engine. She said she painted the word "Help" on a large white towel but no one came by until Grace's boat spotted her.

Claim Hodge Failed To Include Two Farms in Assets

CHICAGO (UP)—The Chicago Daily News said today that former State Auditor Orville Hodge failed to include two farms on the list of his assets he turned over to the state.

A story from Springfield, Ill., by George Thiem, the Daily News reporter who broke the Hodge scandal, said the state will move to claim the two downstate farms.

The paper said one of the "secret" farms, of 176 acres, is near Carlyle in Clinton County. The other is near Hodge's home town of Granite City, the News said.

It said that Mark O. Roberts, special assistant attorney general who is seeking to recover the money Hodge stole, will claim the property.

Roberts was quoted as saying he would check all 102 county clerks in Illinois to determine whether Hodge has any other property he failed to disclose.

Inadequate Fire Laws Blamed on Blaze Fatal to 71

BOSTON (UP)—An investigator said today the 71 victims of last month's Katie Jane nursing home fire at Warrenton, Mo., lost their lives "because the state of Missouri did not have adequate fire safety regulations for nursing homes."

Chester I. Babcock of the National Fire Protection Assn. so reported after an on-the-scene study of the nation's worst nursing home fire.

He said the fire was caused by defective wiring, careless smoking or arson — probably the first.

Babcock said Missouri is one of only seven states that have no fire marshal and staff to inspect and enforce fire hazard regulations.

He found that the interior exits consisted of two open stairways connecting the first and second stories of the main building, and one open stairway between the first and second stories of the annex.

"Since there were no outside fire escape stairs or chutes," he said, "the open stairways discharging into the open first story hallways were the only means of egress from the undivided second stories of the main building and annex."

Babcock found that private fire protection consisted of portable fire extinguishers, but there were no sprinklers or automatic or manual fire alarm systems.

Public fire protection consisted of a 500-gallons-per-minute pumper, manned entirely by volunteer firemen.

"Investigators have concluded," he said, "that a smoldering fire must have originated within the walls or ceiling of the first story of the annex where it generated smoke and hot fire gases for some time before discovery."

Freed Missionary To Remain in Communist China

HONG KONG (UP)—American missionary Paul A. Mackensen, released Tuesday from a Chinese prison, said today by telephone from Shanghai he intends to stay in Communist China.

The Chinese announced Mackensen's release Thursday, exactly five years after the Philadelphia Lutheran was arrested in Tsin-tao and sentenced to five years in prison.

He was one of 10 Americans held prisoner by the Chinese.

"I am not planning to leave China immediately," Mackensen told United Press in a telephone conversation from Shanghai. "I am trying to find myself work in Shanghai."

The Philadelphian said he did not know what kind of work he could find, but he said the Reds in releasing him gave him the impression he was "free to live in China as I wish."

Virginia's Natural Bridge originally was owned by Thomas Jefferson.

Eisenhower's Boost for Hall as New York Governor Heads Off Rift

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower's advocacy of former

GOP National Chairman Leonard Hall for governor of New York appeared today to have headed off a possible serious party rift.

Mr. Eisenhower joined with party leaders in praising Hall Thursday night at a reception in Hall's honor. The President coupled his praise with his unprecedented boost for Hall as a possible candidate for governor of New York.

The President acted to head off a possible rift only a few hours after his press conference remarks earlier in the day had caused some resentment within the party.

Mr. Eisenhower started a number of party stalwarts with an off-hand remark to reporters that it was "news" to him that Hall might want a high post in the government. The remark added fuel to complaints of some of Hall's most loyal friends among the GOP "old guard" that the former national chairman had been deliberately shunted to the sidelines.

White House spokesmen at the time of Hall's departure from the national committee had said the President looked forward to the continued service of Hall in public life. That appeared to be a clear indication that a federal job was awaiting him.

Hall, who directed the GOP to its landslide presidential victory last year, had refused comment on the President's remark that there was no "prospective vacancy" in the administration for him.

But friends said he was hurt and somewhat bitter. However, Hall left no doubt today that he was delighted with Mr. Eisenhower's statement at the reception Thursday night that "if Len Hall wants to run for governor of New York he's going to have one booster in me."

Hall said he still had not decided whether to seek the New York GOP gubernatorial nomination next year.

Sugar Hart is Favored Over Byars Tonight

NEW YORK — Three streaks will be risked tonight when sensational young Sugar Hart and up-setter Walter Byars make their Madison Square Garden main event debuts in a welterweight 10-round.

Hart of Philadelphia risks his string of seven straight knockouts and his streak of 12 straight victories while Byars of Boston stakes his unbeaten cluster of 10, which includes one draw. Walter is New England welterweight champion.

This meeting of streamlined Hart, with the Elvis Presley sideburns, and stubby Byars, with the low bob-and-weave, will be televised and broadcast nationally by NBC.

Kayo specialist Hart is favored at 4-1 because of the punch which stopped 18 of his 21 opponents. And he won 20 of those 21 bouts.

Locals Show Courage in Battling Norris City, 56-52; Eldorado Loses

Regional Play Assures County Team in Sectional

An all-Saline county final, between the Harrisburg Bull Dogs and Carrier Mills Wildcats, will be staged at the Norris City regional basketball tournament tonight, thus assuring that the county will be represented in the sectional meet at West Frankfort next week.

Game time for the contest is eight o'clock. Doors will open at 6:45.

The Bull Dogs last night showed plenty of courage in battling to a 56 to 52 victory over Norris City and Carrier Mills in the third quarter spurred away to an easy victory, 60 to 35, over an Eldorado team that had been obstinate up to that point.

Seventh Straight Win

In two previous meetings this year, Carrier Mills beat Harrisburg, 82-56, on Dec. 8 and 51-49 in the Saline county tournament Jan. 25.

Last night's semifinal victory gave Coach John Dotson's Bull Dogs their seventh straight win and a mark of 11-15 for the season. Carrier Mills has been beaten but once—a one-point loss to Carbondale Attucks.

The Harrisburg-Norris City contest was the thriller of the tournament so far.

After Harrisburg pulled out to a 16-12 lead, two outside shots by Greathouse of Norris City tied the count at 16-16 at the end of the first period.

Throughout most of the second quarter Norris City led and at halftime the Cardinals went to the dressing room ahead, 29-26.

Harrisburg climbed at the outset of the third period to a 34-31 lead but Norris City then spurred out in front again and regained its three point lead at 39-36 as the fourth quarter began.

Locals Finish Strong

But the Bull Dogs in the last frame finished strong, scoring 20 points to 13 for Norris City and won by the four-point margin.

The tension was great in that last quarter. With five minutes to go Norris City led 46-42 but Ben Fulkerson hit two free throws and Wayne Stone connected to tie the count at 46-46 with three minutes, 20 seconds remaining. At 2 minutes, 15 seconds, Ray Hassett of Harrisburg connected on two free throws and with two minutes left Greathouse hit one free throw to make the count 50-49. With a minute and a half left Stone connected and the count was 52-49 and it was 52-50 with 58 seconds remaining when Bruce of Norris City connected on a free throw.

With 56 seconds left Hassett made both free throws and the score was 54-50. Bruce scored a bucket for Norris City to make the count 54-52 and Bill Henshaw went in for a layup just seconds before the game ended to make the final count 56-52.

The game featured great clutch shooting by Wayne Stone and some outstanding floor work by Norris City's Johnson and Harrisburg's Bennie Fulkerson. Stone was high scorer with 20 points and held Norris City's fine center, McCormick, to 11. A couple of steals by Fulkerson in the final period greatly helped the local cause.

Scoring Drive By Wildcats

Harrisburg hit 21 field goals in 48 attempts for a 43.8 percentage. Norris City connected with 15 out of 40 for 37.5.

The first game saw Carrier Mills, only four points ahead of Eldorado with three minutes gone of the third quarter, put on a scoring drive that netted 18 points before Eldorado could make a point.

Eldorado started out with a stalling game and didn't take its first shot until there were but two minutes and 45 seconds left in the first frame. At that point Eagle Richard Overton shot and made the basket.

Carrier Mills led, 7 to 4, at the end of the first quarter as Eldorado continued to slow up the game. The margin was 26-10 at the end of the half after Eldorado did more shooting the second period.

Rollins Scores 20 Points

Eldorado stayed in the contest for about three minutes of the third period, when the score was 31-27, but at that point Carrier Mills took over, running up 16 points to none the rest of this frame to lead 47-27 going into the final frame, and making the first basket of the fourth quarter before Eldorado could score.

Vern Rollins did a great all-around job for Carrier Mills, making 20 points, and the entire team looked exceptionally good on defense as well as offense. Overton was the only Eagle who was having a bit of success against the Wildcats and he was high for Eldorado with 14 points.

The Wildcats shot 51 times and made 22 baskets for a 43.1 shooting percentage. Eldorado made 12 out of 42 shots for .286.

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP) — Archie Dees, Big Ten scoring champion and center on the co-champion Indiana basketball team, Thursday night was named the Hoosiers' most valuable player.

Dees, a 6-foot 8-inch junior from Mount Carmel, Ill., ran away with the league scoring honors, topping his nearest challenger by 77 points. His free throw accuracy percentage of .848 also paced the Big Ten.

Coach Branch McCracken praised Dees as "an all-around basketball player who does everything well and never loses sight of the fact that he's part of a team."
